

ABSTRACT

An article, particularly a glove or condom, of polyisoprene that is cross-linked with a curing package that comprises diisopropyl xanthogen or xanthogen disulfide. The glove or condom surface is smooth, continuous and defect-free as viewed with a scanning electron microscope. The articles demonstrate improved latex stability over polyisoprene articles currently in use.

CH01/12197667.1